PRODS RAILROADS ABOUT COMPLYING WITH OHIO CODE

Columbus, April 11.—Dr. John E. Monger, state director of health, has addressed letters to managers and superintendents of more than 100 railroads operating in Ohio, asking them why provisions of the Ohio sanitary code for the government of common carriers in the state are not being observed on their lines, and promising drastic enforcement by the department of health if voluntary observance is not forthcoming.

The letter points out that observations by Dr. Monger and other members of the staff of the department convinced them "that provisions of the Ohio sanitary code governing railroad sanitation are not generally observed by the companies," and that regulation No. 172, governing the temperature and ventilation of passenger coaches is being generally violated.

"I request that you again call the attention of your employees, especially those having to do with the operation of passenger equipment, to not only the regulations in regard to cleaning and disinfection of cars," the letter says, "but especially to that regulation which has to do with the heating and ventilating of coaches. At this season of the year it is very easy to overheat a car, with consequent ill effects to the traveling public."

OHIOAN POISONED BY PRIMROSES

Columbus, April 11.—William F. Weaver, 13, of Ashtabula, O., was granted an award by the state industrial commission for temporary loss of vision. Weaver was a truck driver for a florist, and during the Christmas season rushed delivered many primroses. In his application for compensation he declared that he became partially blind from a poison which he contracted while handling the flowers, and the medical affidavits which accompanied the application bore out the claim.

J. E. TODD DENIES MILLER'S CHARGE

Columbus, April 11.—John E. Todd, local attorney, denied the statement made by George L. Miller before the senate Daugherty committee. Todd said: "I was retained by Miller before I knew what his case was about, and when I learned that I refused to proceed with it. I never talked to Daugherty about the case." Todd, in discussing Miller's testimony, revealed that he had been subpoenaed by the senate committee to testify next Wednesday. "I will tell the whole story when I take the stand," he said.

My Rosy Skin

How I clean it—how I preserve it

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My skin is the marvel of millions. Even softer and more rosy than 40 years ago. Yet mine is a grandmother's age.

Mine has been no easy life. I have lived it in the limelight. I served France five years in the rigors of the war. Yet countless young girls envy my complexion. I can easily pass for 19.

France gave me the methods I employ. Now, in gratitude, I am supplying them to others. They multiplied my beauty, gave me perennial youth. Now I hope to bring to millions the benefits I got.

How I keep clean

The first step to beauty is a clean skin—a skin that is clean to the depths. Lucile Lantelme, a famous Parisian beauty, taught me how to get it.

The method is a liquid cleanser. I call it my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. So it cannot grow hair on the face. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. But it penetrates every pore. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all that clogs the skin comes with it.

You may think you clean your skin without it, but you don't. Apply Facial Youth to what you call a clean skin and see the extra dirt you get. That is what causes blackheads and blemishes.

I cover my body with Facial Youth before bathing. Thus I remove three times the refuse I remove without it. Nothing to compare.

My Facial Youth is the greatest cleansing formula science has created. The greatest beauty experts now employ it. Some supply it to others, but at four times my price.

I bring it to you at a modest price, and I urge you to employ it. You will find nothing to approach it. A fine complexion is impossible unless the skin is clean.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters at 75 cents per bottle. Also my Youth Cream—my fruit cold cream. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Take this first step to beauty now. Clean the skin with my Facial Youth. The immediate results will amaze you. Then, if you wish my other aids, they are at your call. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

A MOTHER-AND-SON PARTNERSHIP THAT HAS LASTED FOR 60 YEARS

We find in the American magazine for April as interesting a story as one often reads. It is entitled "A mother and son partnership that has lasted for sixty years." The whole page illustration in the magazine shows Mr. Harry Gordon Selfridge and his mother, the former about sixty-five years old, and the latter, a fine looking motherly lady of ninety. Copying from below the picture Mr. Selfridge is represented as saying:

"My Mother, was always thirsting for knowledge. To-day, at ninety, she is as keenly alive as she was seventy years ago. She has always made it a rule that if a question came up which she could not answer, she would immediately look it up. It is a hard rule but a good one. If she did not know how to pronounce some unusual word, she would be at the dictionary finding that word before the day was out. Or again, it might be some fact of history, or a book, or a poem, or an author, or, indeed, anything. She did not consider it disgraceful not to know when a subject was brought up the first time; but she took it as absolutely disgraceful not to know if the subject came up again. She often said to me:

"The only way we can learn is by finding out what we do not know. An intelligent person ought to be curious about nearly everything; and anyone who does not try to be intelligent must be very unhappy."

"My mother is still tremendously eager to learn. She reads the newspapers regularly. She keeps up on English politics, on American politics, and on world politics. Scarcely a good book comes out that she does not read it. And she can talk on practically any subject with anyone."

Mr. Selfridge is to-day one of the world's greatest retail merchants. He is an American; but his establishment is in London. And he has two distinct achievements to his credit: First, as a young man, he made a success of business in the United States. Then, when he was past forty, he founded his London house, and made an even greater success than his earlier one.

Years ago, in Chicago, he went into Field, Leiter and Company, afterward Marshall Field and Company, as a general utility boy. At twenty-nine he was the general manager of the great Marshall Field store, and a junior partner in the firm. At forty he retired with an adequate fortune. Two years later he went to London and did what was said to be impossible—founded and developed an American department store in the heart of that most conservative city.

He overcame a tremendous prejudice, and he overcame it so completely that Londoners to-day regard Selfridge's, Ltd., on Oxford Street, as just as much a British institution as the Tower of London. It is one of the world's largest department stores, employing nearly six thousand people.

It is a long jump from that great store of to-day to the little village of Ripon, Wisconsin, where Gordon Selfridge was born in 1864. His father had enlisted early in the Civil War and had risen from the ranks to a commission. He was at the front when Gordon was born. A little while later he was killed in action, leaving Gordon and his mother with nothing at all to live on. Mrs. Selfridge immediately began to teach school. Gordon went to work when he was ten. They began as partners; and they are still partners.

His mother was teaching school in Jackson, Mich., when S. H. Field, a cousin of Marshall Fields, gave him a letter to the latter and he went to Chicago and applied for work.

"My interview took about three minutes, and I think I shivered most of the time, for Mr. Field was then the merchant of merchants; and he was very cold and formal in his manner. He read my letter, glanced at me, and said:

"I will start you at ten dollars a week in the basement."

"Then he rang a bell and turned me over to an assistant, who showed me about the store. I went back to Jackson to talk over the situation with my mother, for on the very day I left for Chicago another of our friends, who kept a creamery, offered me twelve hundred dollars a year as a bookkeeper. Twelve hundred dollars in a country town was affluence; so it was a hard choice for me to make. I inclined toward taking the twelve hundred, because that would mean I could support my mother comfortably. But she would hear of nothing of the kind. She was interested in my future, not her own.

"Hers was the long view. She has always had the long view. Acting on her advice, I went to Chicago and took my place in the basement of the wholesale store, without any definite duties—just a boy at ten dollars a week. I found a cheap boarding-house and worked out a budget. The only item for amusement was twenty-five cents a week, which I spent regularly every Saturday night to get into the top gallery of a theater. I had a notion that going to the theater was part of one's education, and I still think that it is. By keeping count of every cent, I lived comfortably enough that first year, had my night at the theater every week, and saved seventy-five dollars.

"Mr. Field did not do much work himself—he was not a merchant in the sense that Benjamin Altman and John Wannamaker were merchants. His method was to keep a close control on finances and expenses, and to get the best man he could find to look after the actual conduct of affairs. Even before I had been made manager of the retail store I told him that I intended to start in business for myself and he replied:

"Will you stay here if I make it worth your while?"

"What would that be?" I asked.

"Twenty thousand a year," he replied.

"Twenty thousand dollars a year was a great deal of money for a man under thirty, so I stayed. In ten years I had saved enough money to retire on. I did retire; not with any definite purpose, but with the idea of having time to study and travel, and generally do what I liked.

"But a life of leisure did not seem to fit at all. I bought a real estate business in Chicago, but it did not prove to be what I wanted, and I quickly sold it again. I bought it from five Jews and sold it to seven Scotchmen! Then I began to think of London as a possible location, although I knew London only as a tourist knows it.

"I was then past forty, had all the money I really needed, and a fine home near Chicago, a home on which we had worked for a long time to get it just as we wanted it. It seemed quite unnecessary to risk my fortune in a new venture, not to speak of moving to a new country. But when a man has been active it is hard for him to stop active business. It is not the money that lures, it is the game of trying to do something better than anyone else has done it. My family was keen to go to England, and my mother was just as eager. She never questioned the outcome of the new enterprise; she just took for granted that it would succeed.

"I found a location in London on Oxford Street, put up a building, and in 1899 we opened the store. To say that we began in the face of prejudice is to tell only a fraction of the story. In the first speech I made in England I took as a text, 'We have come here to learn, not to teach.' The British know some sections of merchandising much better than do the Americans, and vice versa. Making that store a success was only a matter of combining the best practices of the two countries and adapting them to the market."

The situation on the eve of the Sixth Congressional District convention is precarious, and the prospects are for a very specu-

Cedarville colored folks had a big baptizing near that place yesterday, when eleven persons were dipped in the creek near the old flax mill. Although the snow came down the members faced the ordeal.

Yesterday's paper gave the first half of these directions—told how to knit the upper, slip-over part of the bathing suit. Today I shall give the bloomers which go with that upper part. (In case you missed seeing yesterday's directions, buy a back copy of the paper. Do not write to me for them, as I keep no reprints of my articles. Every newspaper keeps a back file of its papers, which the public may at least look over.)

Bloomers for a Size 38 Bathing Suit: Eight balls of blue Scotch knitting yarn, one pair of bone knitting needles number four and one pair of steel knitting needles number ten. Using the steel needles, cast on 110 sts., K two, P two, for three inches. Change to the bone needles, K five ridges, increase one st. on each end of needle every fourth row, until eight sts. have been added on each end of needle every third row, having 155 sts. on needle. Now decrease one st. on each end of needle every fourth row six times, then decrease one st. on each end of needle every sixth row till there are 130 stitches on needle. Knit ten inches to lengthen back knit to within 50 stitches of the end, turn, knit back turn, knit to within 55 stitches of the end, turn, knit back; repeat this, leaving five more stitches each time, till 40 stitches remain on first needle. Change to steel needles, K two, P two, for 12 rows, for waistline.

Thirteenth Row: K 2, * yarn over needle two times, K two stitches together; repeat from * to end of row. Fourteenth Row: K one stitch, K the first yarn over and drop the second one to give a large hole for ribbon to run through. Then K five more rows of K two, P two. Bind off loosely, sew up each leg, join the two sections at the middle seam and the bloomers are done.

These directions answer the requests of "Mrs. G. H. Annie, S. K. and Dot." I regret that I have not directions for bathing suits in all sizes, but this is a very flexible style and will fit any woman of fairly medium size.

One Reader Friend wrote me that she had ripped out an old sweater and wished to use the wool in making a bathing suit. Before doing so, wrap the wool around a board shingle and hold it over the spout of a boiling tea kettle to steam out the wrinkles as much as possible.

Today's Talks

JUST FOR THE PURE JOY OF IT

One of the interesting things in nature is the extent to which roots of various trees, shrubs, and plants dig down into the earth.

I have sometimes tried to pull up quite an insignificant plant and soon discovered that it didn't pull up so easily as I had expected.

I have known many men. I like to talk with men whose interests lie deep, whose activities are not confined to the commonplace affair of merely making money.

And so I discover men! Men with roots deep in soils that you wouldn't expect them to be in. And I find that the special interests of these men are always on the same general plan—they work for the service they are able to render and the pure joy that comes back to them.

There always comes a time to every human being who has worked and striven for money and possession, when he sees the utter inadequateness of them both and when he wishes, more than anything else in this world, to be of use to someone, somehow.

For we cannot enrich our lives with possession alone. We must extract what possession gives of beauty and comfort and inspiration and then broadcast it all as widely as we are able, for the benefit of others.

We must do things for the pure joy of doing them!

I know of a man who is going to spend a year in research work that is going to cost him personally many thousands of dollars. He is a very wealthy man and one who has rendered great public service, but he feels that he can get happiness only out of work that is finally passed on for the benefit of others. He is once very poor, so he sees broad sides of life and believes in correcting evils by making better and happier men and women.

I believe that Edison would be insulted if you were to talk about the money he had made. I remember standing by and watching one of his great factories burn down a few years ago. While I was watching and the huge floors were falling in flames, this man was in a distant building already planning a new building! He wasn't worrying one bit—but getting fun out of doing something, bigger, better! If you work for just the pure joy of it, and do your work well, you are a worthy part of this great universe.

CORPORATION PLAN IS FOLLOWED BY ANTIOCH STUDENTS

Miss Rowena Greene, of San Antonio, Texas, won a distinct honor by being chosen sophomore representative for the Student Council of Antioch College, at the elections held Wednesday. Miss Greene is the only girl on the council and this is her first year at the school.

William Moore, of Cincinnati will represent the sub-juniors, Normal Whitaker, of Hamilton, the juniors; Adam Schantz, Dayton, the sub-seniors, and Arthur Zieg, of Dayton, the seniors.

Edna Holland of Dayton, and Florence Armstrong of Philadelphia were re-elected to serve on the Woman's Conference. Others named for this body were Tirzah Noyes, of Oneida, N. Y., Esther Sussman, of Dayton, and Alice Mott, of Syracuse, N. Y.

Those selected for the Men's Conference are Norma Andrus, of Spencerport, N. Y., Mack West, of Wellsboro, Pa., Nelson Urban, of Dayton; Charles Woolridge, of Pittsburgh, and Stanley Teale, of Hudson, Mass.

The form of government at the college is known as the "Corporation Plan." In it the students have functions similar to those of stockholders of a corporation. They elect a student council, or board of directors, composed of class representatives, and the various officers, including a manager. Herman Harmon of Ashtabula is manager and Robert Straker of Troy, president for next year.

The alternate divisions, A. and B. have entirely separate organizations, except that the vice president and assistant manager are members of Division C and act in that capacity for the two alternating divisions. Division C is made up of full-time students who are in college throughout the year and who help coordinate the working of the dual system.

The Student Council controls matters pertaining to the student body in general, with committees, similar to the departments of a corporation, in charge of the various activities. The committees are responsible to the manager and are appointed by him in conference with the president.

The W.Women's Conference, elected by the girls, has worked out simplified rules for the residents of the girls' dormitory. The Men's Conference, instead of rules, has set forth standards of conduct to aid in the development of the qualities which are demanded of Antioch students for admission to the college.

MEN AND WOMEN IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

General Emilio Aguinaldo, who headed the war against the United States in 1899 and who is now chairman of the Philippine Independence Mission, seeking in a peaceful way what he failed in the field, is likely to head a delegation of Filipino legislators to Washington to urge independence for the islands. Rear Admiral Joseph Strauss, U. S. N., has been appointed one of the receivers of the Mammoth Oil Company, Sinclair's company which operates the wells on the Teapot Dome, in the Government's suit to cancel the leases. President Friedrich Ebert has dissolved the Reichstag and will rule for 60 days with the powers of a dictator. Grace George, famous actress, was badly injured in New York when her automobile was struck by another car and overturned. Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., wife of the son of the oil king, has presented a wonderful pipe organ to the Beneficent Congregational Church, of Providence, R. I., in memory of her mother, Mrs. Abby Green Aldrich, who died in 1915. When Charles E. Prichard, of New York, was sentenced to jail in Chambersburg, Pa., for not taking Mr. Volstead seriously, Mrs. Gertrude Virginia Colville coaxed the sheriff to open the door long enough for her to shackle him for life. Now, as his wife, she is awaiting his release.

THREE OBJECTIVES OF P.-T. A'S CITED BY OHIO OFFICIAL

Parent-Teacher associations should have three objectives, that of co-operation between parents and schools; creating a better parent-school relationship; and a deeper interest in education, according to Mrs. A. J. Barnett, of Dayton, vice-president of the Southwest District of the P. T. A. in Ohio, in an address before the Spring Valley Parent-Teacher Association, Thursday night.

A large number of parents and patrons of the school attended the meeting, held in the auditorium. Mrs. C. A. Sollers, president of the Spring Valley association, presided at the meeting. Miss Anna Satterthwaite, primary teacher, led the devotion.

A violin solo was given by Mrs. E. C. Walley, accompanied by Miss Fulkerson. Miss Bee Walton, gave a reading, and a number was given by a quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collett, Mrs. T. C. Haydock, and Mrs. Holland, all of New Burlington.

After Mrs. Barnett's talk, the association appointed two leaders for the Farm Bureau sewing club composed of pupils. Miss Holland and Miss Fulkerson were appointed. Mrs. Anna Krug, and Miss Bee Walton were appointed leaders of the canning club.

Arrangements were made for a waste paper campaign, to be completed before the next meeting, the second Thursday in May. The paper will be sold and the proceeds used for the association. The Spring Valley organization now has over twenty members.

YOUTHS RELEASED AFTER BEING HELD

Bert Webb, 19, and Everett Ellison, 15, both of Wilmington, were released by Police early Friday morning after being held several hours on suspicion.

They were arrested in the railroad yards by Patrolmen Jones and Confer. A quantity of tobacco, including ten packages of cigarettes, was found on them, police say.

Police locked them up pending an investigation of where they had obtained the tobacco. They were released at one o'clock Friday morning to Webb's father after police here had communicated with Chief of Police Ben South, Wilmington.

Greene Countians Who Have Achieved Distinction

(Editor's Note—This is number 45 of a series of articles concerning Greene County citizens and former citizens who have attained nationwide prominence in their chosen fields of endeavor. It is interesting to note that Greene County has furnished more than its share of people who have attained renown.)

DR. EDWARD ORTON

Antioch College was the means of bringing to Greene County one of its most distinguished former citizens, Dr. Edward Orton, former president of Antioch, and first president of Ohio State University.

Dr. Orton was born in Deposit, New York, March 9, 1829, and graduated from Hamilton College, in 1848. He took up teaching as a means of finishing his preparation to become a minister and studied science in Harvard, but changed his plans about going into the ministry. When Antioch was under the patronage of the Unitarian Church in 1865, Dr. Orton was called to a professorship there, having distinguished himself in geology. His connection with the college lasted until 1873 and during the last year he was president of the Yellow Springs school. He was elected first president of Ohio State University in 1873.

Dr. Orton was appointed one of the assistants of the chief of the Ohio Geological Survey in 1889 by Governor Rutherford B. Hayes, and continued as a state geologist until his death. He served as professor of geology and president of Ohio State from 1873 to 1881, and then, when he descended from the presidency, continued as geological professor until his death.

Dr. Orton was a member of the Geological Society of America, of which he served as president in 1897 and was also a member of the American association for the Advancement of Science, serving as its president in 1898-1899. His death occurred in Columbus, October 16, 1899.

Safe Fat Reduction

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat wring their hands in mortification and helplessness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly, and quickly reaching their ideal figure, with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famous formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a box, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a box of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

to attract must Radiate Health!

BEAUTY is the magnet which draws all eyes—and back o' beauty—Health—working silently—Red blood tingling through the veins—the glow of youth in the cheeks—the spring of eagerness, of vim, of vitality in the walk—the ever grace of air, unrestrained by care or worry—All the charms of beauty. All the works of health.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy secretly jealous, perhaps—wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness that is not theirs. But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved-for attractiveness—that beauty. Good looks is the barometer of one's condition. Good health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities—makes beauty and attractiveness impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both.

S. S. S., since 1826, has been ridding the system of impurities—pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema and rheumatism—building red blood cells—aiding women to be attractive by radiating health. S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks—scientifically prepared and proportioned. All good drug stores carry S. S. S. It is more economical to purchase the large size bottle.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Evil Shepherd

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Francis came out in the rose garden on the following morning. Their conversation was a little disjointed, as the conversation of lovers in a secluded and beautiful spot should be, but they came back often to the subject of Sir Timothy.

"If I have misunderstood your father," Francis declared, "and I admit that I have, it has been to some extent his own fault. To me he was always the deliberate scolder against any code of morals, a rebel against the law even if not a criminal in actual deeds. I honestly believed that the Walled House was the scene of disreputable orgies, that your father was behind Fairfax in that cold-blooded murder, and that he was responsible in some sinister way for the disappearance of Reggie Wilmore. Most of these things seem to have been shams, like the fight last night."

She moved uneasily in her place.

"I am glad I did not see that," she said, with a shiver.

"I think," he went on, "that the reason why your father insisted upon Lady Cynthia's and my presence there was that he meant it as a sort of allegory. Half the vices in life he claims are unreal."

Margaret passed her arm through his and leaned a little toward him.

"If you knew just one thing I have never told you," she confided, "I think that you would feel sorry for him. I do, more and more every day, because in a way that one thing is my fault."

Notwithstanding the warm sunshine, she suddenly shivered. Francis took her hands in his. They were cold and lifeless.

"I know that one thing, dear," he told her quietly.

She looked at him stonily. There was a questioning fear in her eyes.

"You know—"

"I know that your father killed Oliver Hilditch."

She suddenly broke out into a stream of words. There was passion in her tone and in her eyes. She was almost the accuser.

"My father was right, then!" she exclaimed. "He told me this morning that he believed that it was to you or to your friend at Scotland Yard that Walter had told his story. But you don't know—you don't know how terrible the temptation was—how you see I say it quite coolly—how Oliver Hilditch deserved to die. He was trusted by my father in South America and he deceived him, he forged the letters which induced me to marry him. It was part of his scheme of revenge. This was the first time we had any of us met since. I told my father the truth that afternoon. He knew for the first time how my marriage came about. My husband had prayed me to keep silent. I refused. Then he became like a devil. We were there, we three, that night after you left, and Francis, as I live, if my father had not killed him, I should have!"

"There was a time when I believed that you had," he reminded her. "I didn't behave like a pedagogic upholder of the letter of the law then, did I?"

She drew closer to him.

"You were wonderful," she whispered.

"Dearest, your father has nothing to fear from me," he assured her tenderly. "On the contrary, I think that I can show him the way to safety."

She rose impulsively to her feet.

"He will be here directly," she said.

"He promised to come across at half-past twelve. Let us go and meet him. But, Francis—"

For a single moment she crept into his arms. Their lips met, her eyes shone into his. He held her away from him a moment later. The change was amazing. She was no longer a tired woman. She had become a girl again. Her eyes were soft with happiness, the little lines had gone from about her mouth, she walked with all the spring of youth and happiness.

"It is marvelous," she whispered.

"I never dreamed that I should ever be happy again."

They crossed the rustic bridge which led on to the lawn. Lady Cynthia came out of the house to meet them. She showed no signs of fatigue, but her eyes and her tone were full of anxiety.

"Margaret," she cried, "do you know that the hall is filled with your father's luggage, and that the car is ordered to take him to Southampton directly after lunch?"

Margaret and Francis exchanged glances.

"Sir Timothy may change his mind," the latter observed. "I have news for him directly he arrives."

On the other side of the wall they heard the whinnying of the old mare, the sound of galloping feet from all directions.

"Here he comes!" Lady Cynthia exclaimed. "I shall go and meet him."

Francis laid his hand upon her arm.

"Let me have a word with him first," he begged.

She hesitated.

"You are not going to say anything—that will make him want to go away?"

"I am going to tell him something which I think will keep him at home."

Sir Timothy came through the postern-gate, a moment or two later. He waved his hat and crossed the lawn in their direction. Francis went alone to meet him and, as he drew near, was conscious of a little shock. His host, although he held himself bravely, seemed to have aged in the night.

"I want one word with you, sir, in your study, please," Francis said.

He laughed at Kellogg's Bran!

Now read this letter of thanks from Mr. Kane. It speaks for itself. Remember, it is because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran that it was so effective in his case—just as it has been in thousands of others. Only ALL bran can produce 100 per cent results.

My dear friend:

Imagine a young man weighing 165 pounds in the course of a few months parked in bed, a weakling weighing 94 pounds. An elderly lady whom I knew since I was a kid paid me what she thought was a last visit. Upon being told of my plight she immediately mentioned your product for such an ailment. Maybe some of us didn't look upon her views very lightly . . . it was to laugh!

My dear friend, I am still laughing . . . not at your product, but because I am able to. I am telling you and the world at large, "Eat Kellogg's Bran!" It should be called "Constipation's worst enemy." I owe you my heartfelt gratitude. I can talk, and whenever the opportunity presents itself, my mouth is always full of bran—Kellogg's Bran. Wishing you countless days of progress, I am

Yours for success,

John M. Kane,

228 Salem St., Woburn, Mass.

Eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, regularly to relieve constipation permanently. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money. You will like the delicious nut-like flavor. Sold by all grocers.
